

How to Recognize the Designee Class of 2008 (July 2007 – December 2007 completers)

CPCU candidates who take and pass their last exam during July-September 2007 and October-December 2007 testing windows should not be given a diploma or included in the conferment ceremony honoring the class of 2007 (July 2006 -June 2007). They will be members of the class of 2008.

You may, if you wish, recognize potential members of the Class of 2008 with this script:

“In addition to the Class of 2007 CPCUs being honored today, we have CPCU candidates who passed their last CPCU exam in the past few months and have therefore met the educational requirements of the CPCU program. As soon as it is verified that they meet the experience and ethics requirement, these individuals will receive official approval to begin using the CPCU designation as a member of the Class of 2008; some of these 2008 new designees may have already received approval to use the designation. As part of the Class of 2008, they will be eligible to participate in the national conferment ceremony in Philadelphia, PA and we will also honor them in next year’s chapter conferment ceremony.”

- A) [If names are known:]
I would like to read the names of those who have met the examination requirements for the CPCU program, please stand (as your names are called):
<read name(s)>

- B) [If names are not known:]
Will all those who have met the examination requirements of the CPCU program please rise?

Please join me in recognizing the first group of completers in the Class of 2008.
